

Keep students learning beyond the classroom

Verizon offers the distance learning program for K–12 students.

In today's digital economy, access to technology equals access to opportunity. Verizon offers the distance learning program to provide unlimited wireless internet access at a discounted rate to participating K–12 public schools and libraries.<sup>1</sup>

The digital divide is real. Many students lack internet connectivity at home and struggle to study or complete homework remotely. They need devices and internet access to connect to their schools. With Verizon, reliable connectivity can take the classroom to students virtually wherever they learn.

Verizon's distance learning program has helped hundreds of thousands of K–12 public schools students by offering:

- Unlimited 5G/4G LTE data for connected devices (Data speeds may be deprioritized, not throttled in times of high network congestion.)<sup>2</sup>
- MiFi and BYOD devices (Must be a minimum 4G LTE device approved for use on the Verizon Wireless network.)
- Low-cost service and mobile hotspot pricing
- Schools/Districts must sign an Authorized Customer Agreement
- Schools/Districts are responsible for provisioning the products and services with a mobile device management software for compliance with the Children's Internet Protection Act (CIPA)
- 6-mo min. activation duration requirement per line
