Region: Verizon - All Regions	Area Affected: Local	Process Affected: Interactive Agent Transport

Please also see attachment.

Details:

On October 19, 2020, Verizon Wholesale Local Ordering will shutdown its current servers for EDI Order and Preorder transactions via Interactive Agent transport. We will be replacing these servers with new servers. These new servers are currently up and available for testing. Between now and October 19, CLECs who use Interactive Agent to port 6999 or 6998 will need to make changes to their firewall and VPN configuration and test connectivity to our new servers. They will need to submit test transactions to each Inbound IP so that we can verify they can receive connections back from our new servers also. Please work with Connectivity Management to schedule the changes on our side to correspond to the changes on your side. It is recommended that the CLECs test as soon as possible during this testing window. The current IP addresses are being provided below to help the CLECs identify the current interface, firewall rules, and VPN tunnel configurations on their side to be updated. During the testing window all the Inbound IPs will be active, but after the effective date, only one of the two Production inbound Order and Preorder IPs will be active. The CLECs should use DNS names edi-order-prod.verizon.com and edi-preorder-prod.verizon.com to connect to the active IP of each type. Any questions should be directed to connectivity.management.team@verizon.com.

Current Inbound IP addresses:
