PAY-PER-VIEW ORDERING SERVICE

A. DESCRIPTION

Pay-Per-View Ordering Service (PPVOS) is an automated order entry system that allows telephone end users who are also subscribers to a video service provider to order pay-per-view (PPV) programs from a video provider (customer) by dialing a telephone number listed in their program offering.

When an end user dials the designated program number, the call is routed to the PPV equipment in the Telephone Company central office through Telephone Company facilities. The PPV equipment generates an announcement acknowledging the end user's order and routes the called program number and calling number via data lines to the video provider's order entry equipment. The PPV video provider using their distribution network, authorizes the requested show for the end user.

B. REGULATIONS

1. PPVOS is offered to video providers who are customers of the Telephone Company and who provide video services to end users.

2. PPVOS requires special central office equipment and is provided only where such central office equipment and facilities are available.

3. Temporary suspension of PPVOS at the video provider's (customer's) request is not provided.

4. Any premises equipment required as part of this service must be provided by the customer at their expense and be compatible with and meet the interface specifications of Telephone Company facilities.

   Guide rates apply for private line or data channels (Special Services Circuits) as required for this service.

5. The customer's video system must be capable of addressing their subscribers individually through the video provider's distribution network which is connected to customer premises equipment at the end user's location.

6. The Telephone Company has the sole right to determine the telephone numbers to be assigned to each video provider to be used by end users when ordering PPV events.

7. It will be the responsibility of the customer to inform the end user of the use and operation of PPVOS.

8. The minimum contract period for PPVOS between the Telephone Company and the customer is one year. Any termination of service by the customer prior to the expiration of that period will result in a termination charge to the customer as specified in this Guide.
